REMEMBER that Campbell & Miller have the most complete stock of Christmas Confections, Fruits and Groceries ever brought to the market.

LONDON, Lancashire, a town of half the size, or less, of our own, has a Post Office Money Order Department. We ought to have one also. Why not?

LOST.—Between Stanford and Danville, on Tuesday, a narrow gold bracelet. The finder will please return to Stanford College, where he will be rewarded.

The Stanford Female College adjourned for the holidays yesterday, and will resume again next Wednesday. We presume the other schools will do the same.

AFTER a three months absence at Crab Orchard, attending to his duties as Pedagogue, the smiling countenance of Mr. G. A. C. Rochester, again illuminates our streets.

The colored people are not slow to avail themselves of the benefit of the holidays. They have already arranged for a series of entertainments and frolics during the Christmas days.

HAYDEN BROS., have a splendid stock of Wall Paper, which they are offering at cost. Those desiring to beautify their rooms should avail themselves at once of their liberal offer.

On the 24 Tuesday in January, 1876, in the National Bank of Stanford, there will be held a meeting for the purpose of electing Directors of said Bank, for the year 1876. [sd] J. J. McRoberts, Cash.

Go to Greenwald's at the New York Store, and you will be able to buy all kinds of goods at half the usual price.

It is said that we are to have another butcher's shop in town after the New Year opens, and one which will be run in all respects, for the benefit of the people. Such an one, will pay the butcher, and greatly accommodate the public.

RETURNED.—Miss Bettie Paxton, who has been spending a month very pleasantly with her friends in Lebanon, and Miss Annie W. Logan, looking much better after a short stay at her aunt's in Jessamine, returned to town on Tuesday last.

JIM ED. BRUCE says he has put his animals and vehicles in specially good trim for the holidays, and that all who want to enjoy a nice drive, or visit friends and relations in adjoining counties, can be supplied at his stables with the best in the lively line.

THE New York Store, kept by E. Greenwald, has a large stock of goods which they sell at and below cost.

CHRISTMAS PHOTOGRAPHS.—S. Packard's gallery will be open from to-day, and during the entire Christmas holidays. Call and see his new series of pictures, all cheap and beautiful. Gallery opposite the Commercial Hotel. Get your Christmas pictures now.

THE Docket of the Appellate Court of Kentucky, closed on the 14th inst., and hence the cases which were appealed from this Court at the Special December Term, several in number, will have to go over to the next term of that Court. This fact, will hold them several months longer.

ONE of our most enterprising grocers has received a Christmas present in the shape of two boxes of champagne. We regret to say that we did not receive any ourselves, but if the Lord spires us, we are going to accept of the invitation to imbibe some of the above. Here's to you, Brown.

A MAN told us the other day, as a fact that after he had cut off the head of a turkey, the bird actually gibed. We are not in the least surprised at that, when we know that McDonald and Avery, and Joyce, after their heads were cut off, "gibed" worse than they did before.

NEITHER the Barker work in Pulaski nor the work advertised nearly three months ago to be let in Mercer and Boyle counties, have been awarded yet. The trustees said sometime since, that they would run a through train from Chattanooga to Cincinnati on the 4th of July, 1876, and none of them trustees ever told a lie.

STEALING.—A little negro boy about ten years old, slipped into the store of Pendleton & Hocker last Wednesday and stole about $30. He was found out and $20 recovered from him. The little rascal had bought a number of Christmas trunks, and was disposing of the whole sum as fast as he could.

THE Myers House is the most popular resort for young married couples in the State. There are a half a dozen of them there now, and others are hourly expected. If this kind of thing continues, our friend Owens will have either to enlarge or "shut up shop" to transient customers. Plenty of room yet, though, so come along.

THE secret of the health of Stanford, at all times, is that the entire town is well drained. Built as it is, upon an inclined plane, the drainage is perfect, and all the filth of the village is carried off by every drenching rain, into a never failing stream which flows immediately through the Southern edge of the place.

THE wooden covers to the crossing of Main street, got sadly out of repair the other day. So much so, in fact, that it became necessary to put up a warning sign.

Our thoughtful authorities, however, had the dangerous place repaired speedily, and there is no longer any danger to those who have occasion to travel up and down Main street.

BLACKSMITHING.—Mr. B. G. Alford, desires us to state, that on the first of January next, (1876) he will open a first class Blacksmith shop in Stanford, at the old stand of his father, on the South side of Main Street, near the Presbyterian Church, and that he will make due announcement of the fact in the first issue of this Journal in the New Year.

MANY of our lady friends have, we doubt not, china flower vases in their parlors. We advise them to see that no water is left over in them from the summer use, as they are very apt to freeze and break. We have been led to call attention to this matter, by the complaint of a little girl in town, who lost a handsome Etruscan vase in this way, during the last cold spell.

WHEN the Circuit Judge sentenced a small darkie to the penitentiary at the last term of the Court, and asked him what he had to say why the judgment of the court should not be pronounced upon him, he said, "dunno, boss." Then, said the Judge, I sentence you to hard labor in the State prison for one year. The darkie sprang to his feet and said, laughing, "all right—dis chile's ready."

THE bucksters who have been going all over this and the adjoining counties buying eggs at about 10¢ to 12¢ per dozen, and hoping to sell them in the towns at 25 to 30 cents per dozen during the holidays, will find themselves much mistaken. The egg market is slow at 18 cents per dozen. Many families have fully supplied themselves with eggs for the holidays.

JOE PORTMAN, of Portman & Owens, says they have horses that can trot to Danville in less than an hour, but he don't want to hire them to people who are in such a hurry as Mr. Edwards was. He says he can, and wants to hire his animals to men who wish a safe, strong, swift horse, but who will not be so unmerciful as to drive them at break-neck speed.

CHRISTMAS TREES.—The Christmas Tree at the Presbyterian Church to-night, given for the benefit of the Sunday School, promises to be a most delightful affair. All our citizens are invited to contribute to the same, as it is not sectarian in any sense. Make the children happy, and the old folks too, by placing something on the Tree for them.

SOME petty thief went into the office of the Myers House last Monday night about 11 o'clock and stole the large, nice stage wagon belonging to Mr. Lark Edge, out the back door and drove the stage into the street. He also took the comb and brush which were hanging under the glass. Edge promises to wear the lash out on the thief's back if both can be found, and we hope they may.

MR. W. B. McROBERTS, who graduated last session at the school of Pharmacy at Philadelphia, and afterwards held a most responsible position with a druggist in Cincinnati, has returned to his old home in Stanford, and will open about the first of the year, in partnership with Mr. W. H. Anderson, a first-class drug store, in the room now occupied by the New York Store. We wish them abundant success.

JUDGE DENNIS, Police Judge of Stanford and Justice W. R. Carson, will hold their courts to-morrow, Christmas day, at the residence of Mr. Marshall, residing in the first, and office of Robert C. Cantabile, in the other. These will be the last two courts held in this District this year, and the only two that will be held, except the county and Police courts in January, until the 1st Monday in March, 1876, at which time the Quarterly court will begin.

THE New York Store is selling out a lot. If you do not believe it, go there and see for yourself.

MR. AYRES, father of an employee of the Railroad Company, at Richmond Junction, has been afflicted with a cataract in each eye for a long time, and he went to Cincinnati some months since to have an operation performed upon them. It was found necessary to cut one of the eye-balls out, entirely. The sight of the other eye is but little, if at all, improved, and the old gentleman is in a feeble condition. He bears his affliction heroically.

ABOUT six years ago, a man named James Harris, a laborer, living near Stanford, was afflicted with a disease leg. The consequences were that amputation became necessary to save the man's life. Being poor, and unable to buy an artificial leg, the people of our town and vicinity made up money enough to buy one for him. Last week he went to Louisville and had a limb fitted, which suits him very well, and he will soon be able to "get around" to his work without the use of a crutch or cane.

WE are about out of the words and can whistle. For ten long months we have borne in silent agony the many short comings of the "Patent" arrangement. We have hid our tears on many occasions as we saw things published by us a week before, sometimes two, appear as fresh news on our country's columns. We added when we placed the column of our first page headed "The State," and saw the article—we you can see it for yourselves. Thank God the day of our deliverance is at hand. As scrier, Mr. Aiken.

DURING the holidays there is always an influx of visitors to the towns, especially negroes, many of whom are idle and worthless. They flock thither for various purposes. Many of them are honest and harmless, but some of them are not. We advise our citizens and readers, generally, to be on their guard, and have their chickens cooped, coal and wood houses securely fastened against them. Begin now. The petty rogues are up and wide awake, both day and night, and you cannot be too vigilant. A word to the wise is sufficient.

WE pity the inmates of our jail, who will be deprived of the enjoyments of a merry Christmas. But, then, they alone, generally, are to blame for this deprivation of their liberties, &c. Honesty is their policy, and if they had kept their hands out of the pockets of other people, and striven as hard to earn an honest penny as they did to get that which did not belong to them, they, like the honest laborers and citizens who, to day, look forward to a jolly time, for some days to come, might be enjoying the free air and sunlight of the closing year.

BILLIARDS.—The learned and pious Dr. McCash, President of the Princeton Theological Seminary, a Presbyterian Institute of the "straightest set," has had the good sense to order five billiard tables, and place them in the Seminary for the benefit of the students. This, of course, was done in order to give the students a healthy and innocent recreation without necessitating to the public saloons in the vicinity. This "new departure" is a proper step, and convinces us that the world is in a state of progression. This act of the sensible President, is applauded by many other divines, and all who believe in innocent pastime for students, will likewise endorse it.

THIEVES.—Crab Orchard has been troubled with thieves for some days past, as we learn from a gentleman just from there. He told us that last Sunday night the drug store of Doctor Egbert was entered from the rear door, but the thief only took a jar of candy and a bottle of whiskey. On last Monday night the store of Sigler and James was broken open, and the thief, after going through the two money drawers and finding no funds, left the premises in disgust, taking with him only a little tobacco to chew on for a few days. Judge Carson, also of that town, accidentally dropped two twenty dollar bills on the floor of his store room, which some negro picked up and appropriated to his own use.

WE don't know it to be true, but give the report as we heard it. The other day a man was riding through the tangled forests of Casey county in search of cattle, when, "all at once" he came upon the secluded camp of the notorious Bill Wilson, where he and three of his confederates were concealed. There was a picket out on the watch, who called him to a halt and demanded of him his business. On giving them a statement, he was permitted to depart in peace. The man told our reporter that the Wilson's party intended to go out of the county within a few days, and that all the militia of the State could not arrest them. This statement may have been mere talk, but it may have been true.

THE terrible conflagrations which have occurred in other towns during the Christmas holidays, by reason of the firing of sky-rockets, fire-crackers, and other things of the kind, have admonished our town authorities to be on their guard. Hence, there has been a town ordinance enacted prohibiting the use of such things within their corporate limits. The law is right, and should be rigidly enforced. What is the little pleasure of a child, or man either, when compared to the safety of the houses and other property of our citizens? It is well known that a single firecracker has been the means of burning up thousands of dollars worth of property. Therefore, let our town trustees see that these destructive things are not fired in places where they might cause great destruction of property.

A SAD DEATH.—Mr. H. C. Brown, of Virginia, an employee on the C. & R. R. died in Nicholasville on Friday last, from the effects of an injury sustained during the recent fire there. In assisting the removal of a safe from the burning store, it was overturned, catching the foot of Mr. Brown beneath its crushing weight, and nearly severing his heel, which after a painful convalescence of a week, ended his suffering in lockjaw. He was a young man of fine promise, and of a very bright mind. We saw him less than three weeks ago all aglow, with the bright anticipation of spending his Christmas with his parents whom he had not seen for three years; but alas! he has been suddenly cut down and instead of realizing his fond hopes and enjoying this happy portion of the year with his loved ones, he has returned to them a corpse. What a sad example of the uncertainty of life! It will be a consolation to his parents to know that just before his jaws were locked in excruciating agony, he "gave evidence of the hope within him," and signified his willingness to go hence.

THE following cases are on the Docket of the Appellate Court for the winter Term, from this Judicial District, to-wit: Lincoln County, Feb. 23, and March 1st, 1876.—Clark vs Sims' admr.; Robinson vs Swope; Worsham vs Worsham's admr., &c.; Dever vs Wilford; Henson vs Northern Bank of Kentucky; Garrard County, March 1st. Stone vs Tate; Bowman's ex'r., vs National Bank of Lancaster; Wilson vs Brown's ex'r.; Lusk vs Jennings; Childs vs Ready's admr.; Smith vs Boyer's ex'r.; Salter vs Arndt's admr.; vs Day; Trustees of Lancaster vs. Paine Williams vs Warren; Woodson vs Taggle; Poor vs Robinson; Beasley vs Sellers.—Boyle County, Feb. 26.—Douglas vs Stone; Fox's admr. vs Salter, &c.; Bowman's ex'r., vs Spears; Clarke vs Rhodes, &c.; Pulaski County, Feb. 26th, and March 1st.—Sloan vs National Bank of Somerset; Newell, &c., vs same; Jones, &c., vs same; Hudson vs Hudson.—Russell County, March 24.—Hays' admr. vs Roussau; Green vs Wilson; Ballinger vs Ballinger; Bell vs Faulkenberg; Campbell vs Hays; Gaskins vs Rexroat.

CRAB ORCHARD.

An interesting and unique shooting match came off at this place to-day. Stephen Burch Esq., a lineal descendant of the celebrated old border hero and Indian fighter, Col. William Whitley, conceived the idea of a re-union of the old pioneers heretofore and of a Centennial target—shooting with his grand-father's gun. A considerable number responded to the invitation and were present. Conspicuous among them, were the tall and venerable figures of Col. Stone, and Pleasant, Mason, Sater, Lackings and W. K. Buchanan, Major Gen'l Judge Higgins, who were competitors with Columbus and Bessie, and who had, in former days, sent many a skin to the "Happy Hunting Grounds." Co-sponsors, also, in the assembly were Maj. John Buchanan, who "fit into the revolution," and General M. J. Harris, who was present at the first siege of Jerusalem, and who won his spurs as a warrior long before the invention of gun-powder.

The gun-powder-horn, and wampum belt of the old soldier were produced, and passed reverently from hand to hand for inspection. The rifle was a wicked looking affair, with its long, lean barrel, into which you could stick your thumb, and its cumbersome priming pan and flint lock. A hundred years ago it was the constant companion of the old Colonel in many a weary march, and in a number of people, it is the weapon which inflicted the death wound upon Tecumseh.

But shooting flint-locks appears to be one of the lost arts. The target, a large bull's eye, was placed at 40 yards, and the first sixteen shots missed the world. The first shot heard from it all was Maj. Buchanan's. When he stepped proudly to the target, and fixed his eagle eye upon the target, and poked forth the shrill war-cry of his car-days, a murmur of admiration ran through the crowd. "Fiz-whizz poof-bang!" went the rifle, when a protracted howl of pain and wrath half a mile away to the right, announced that the Major had hit. That old darkey, however, more fortunate than Achilles of old, had his heel triple-placed with hide thicker and tougher than dragon scales, and the shot only raised a blister, which a "skin plaster" application immediately relieved. The best shot, except the last one fired, was scored by Maj. Gen'l Higgins. It lodged, by measurement, 37 feet 9 inches from the center of the bull's eye. A moderate sized Indian, it seemed to us, might, without much risk, have got away with the hair of the entire party.

"Squire Burch fired the last shot, and showed what it is to have the blood of a hunter in your veins, and to possess, in addition, the family secret of shooting that gun. He got that old darkey to resume his position, on the top of his stable, took a long and careful aim at his heel, fired, and drove the center of the target. It is surmised, therefore, that when Col. Whitley shot Tecumseh, he was aiming at another Indian 50 yards to the right of the great Chief, and up a tree.

The veterans then refreshed themselves with the juice of the Indian Maize, and, after listening to the following original version by one of their number, dispersed:

Stop, traveler, stay—view well the ground. Where Whitley fought and bled—No man will ever see the ground again. Contain the valiant deed.

No cold neglect could check his zeal, His country was his pride And fighting for that country's weal, The hero nobly died.

No tombstone marks the dreary spot Where sleeps a warrior dead, Who lived and died a patriot Now, silent in the grave.

CASEY COUNTY NEWS.

Middleburg.

MISS MAGGIE ROWLAND's school closed on the 17th inst.

JOSEPH BENTLEY, who lives a few miles above here, in Lincoln county, had his ankle dislocated in a scuffle with Sam Baskin in this place a few days since.

An enthusiastic meeting is going on at the Baptist church in this place, with Rev. Mr. Miller, of Versailles, and Rev. J. M. Salles as conductors.

AND now comes a distressing tale from Mr. Salles. Tom Jasper is the owner of a small Shepherd dog—upon which he bestows all the surplus affection not bestowed on his wife, his store and his church. Wishing to make this dog useful, as well as ornamental, Tom built him a nice kennel in front of his store-door, and domiciled him there, in order to guard his goods from the burglar. Just before day, some "tramp" stole his reliable guard, and coming to this place, traded him off to John Coffey for his breakfast. Tom offered a heavy reward, lost several days and nights rest, and on recovery of his dog was more distressed than ever on learning that his fifty-dollar dog was scandalized by being given for one meal's victuals.

ETHELBERT.

LARD, STOCK AND CROP ITEMS.

If you want to rent a farm, consult our advertising columns.

A NUMBER of changes will be made among those who have rented farms and dwellings the past year.

TRADE in all kinds of stock, is dull, as usual, at this season of the year, as farmers and traders are preparing for the turning over of a new leaf.

IN answer to a correspondent we reply, "that if there are any vacant offices for rent we do not know the fact. The only way to find out is to peruse the new advertisements in our paper."

THE $30,000 California race, has been postponed for the third time. The 22nd of February is the day now named for its consummation, but it may be put off to July 4th.

AT the County Court, 2d Monday in January, several pieces of desirable land will be sold at public sale before the Court House door, in Stanford. For further particulars, come to town on that day and see.

THE open winter has been very favorable to the growth of wheat and rye, and a ride along any of our county roads where broad acres of wheat and rye have been sown, will satisfy any one, that so far, the yield of each, promises to be unusually fine next year.

HOOB declined in Louisville and Cincinnati, last Wednesday, half a cent, and it is thought they will not go up again. G. W. Alford, has just returned from New York where he sold three car loads of cattle at 12 to 13 cents. He also sold two loads in Philadelphia, at 61 to 62 cents.

Col. W. E. SIMMS, of Bourbon county, bought of a short-horn breeder, in Illinois, the 4th Duke of Hillhurst, for which he paid $12,000, and it is said he has refused $18,000 for this fine red bull. If the latter is true, Col. S. ought to sell. The calf is only 11 months old.

RON'T BONNER is the owner of more than a hundred horses. He has the most valuable stud of horses in the world. Six of them, including Dexter, cost over $200,000. He has taken nine of the best of them to his Palace Stables in the city of New York. The others he keeps on his farm at Tarrytown.

SINCE the bad news comes from the Southern market of the dull sale for mules, and the indisposition of planters to sell their cotton and tobacco at present prices, we presume our traders will be slow to start their stock in that direction until late in the winter, or before the first March-Corn being cheap and abundant, farmers and traders say it will pay to hold and feed their mules during the winter.

JOHN DAWSON, who went to North Carolina, with John B. Dickerson, has returned, and he says that the mule market is as dull as it can be. They had sold only eight of their drove when he left. He says that the people will not sell their cotton and tobacco any as they are compelled to. They are so low, and that there will not be any market till the first of January. He says that Dickerson has taken up winter quarters, and is apt to hold them for some time.

SOME weeks since, we stated in this column that we had been shown a car of corn, with seven perfect small ears around it. A few weeks thereafter, we saw in an exchange, that another editor saw one with eight small ones around it. And now comes the statement that a man somewhere in this State, found a ear of fine size and shape, in his corn field with 19 small, well developed ears around it. We give it up. Don't you, farmers?
